AFFORDABLE Education is Right Here at Your Fingertips!

California's community colleges are the least expensive, all-around colleges in the nation.
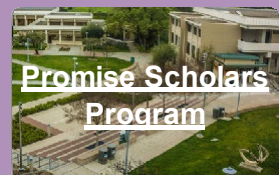

California residents currently pay $46 per unit for community college courses.

A California resident who enrolls in 12 units is considered a full-time student; that student would pay $46 x 12 units, or $552 in enrollment fees per semester.

Financial aid helps make sure that no one with the determination to succeed in higher education is left out because of money.
