CONGRATS TO OUR GRADUATES!!!

To all our students graduating this semester, congratulations! We'll miss you dearly, but we're very excited that you've made it this far and wish you luck wherever you move on to from here.

IS THE CAÑADA GAME FUN TO PLAY?

You tell us! - feel free to download this table top board game from 1973, print it out, and play it. If you have a group you can reserve one of our study rooms using this link.

UNDERSTANDING SHAKESPEARE WITH LIBRARY DATABASES

For all you aspiring Shakespearean Scholars out there, or even if you just have to write a final about a play, we have a great new tool for you. The JSTOR database has combined with the Folger Shakespeare Library to help you find articles about Shakespeare's thirty-seven plays.

JSTOR's Understanding Shakespeare database lets you click on any line in any Shakespeare play and connect automatically to all the essays and articles in JSTOR that contain, discuss, or analyze that line. If you're curious about what a line means or its history, this is an easy way to review the existing body of scholarship. It's also an easy way to find more sources for the essay you're writing!

Here's what it looks like:

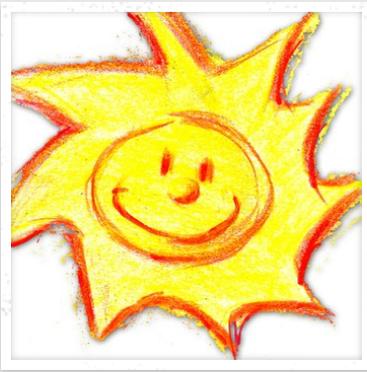

The screenshot shows the 'Understanding Shakespeare' website interface. At the top left is the JSTOR logo with 'BETA' next to it. The title 'Understanding Shakespeare' is in a cursive font. To the right are links for 'About' and 'Contact Us'. Below the title is a search bar with the placeholder text 'Enter the name of a play' and a red 'Go' button. Underneath the search bar is a banner with the text: 'Connecting digital texts from the Folger Shakespeare Library with articles on JSTOR. Pick a play. Click a line. Instantly see articles on JSTOR that reference the line.' Below the banner are navigation buttons for 'Browse: All', 'Comedies', 'Tragedies', 'Histories', and 'Romances'. At the bottom, there are four play covers: 'ALL'S WELL THAT ENDS WELL', 'ANTONY AND CLEOPATRA', 'AS YOU LIKE IT', and 'THE COMEDY OF ERRORS'.

NOT INTO SHAKESPEARE? - MAYBE YOU'D RATHER READ A COMIC BOOK OR GRAPHIC NOVEL . . .

Comics are great for summer reading, and we have an awesome section we keep up to date just for you. Come on in and check out some new stuff (or just read them in one of our comfy chairs).

SUMMER HOURS

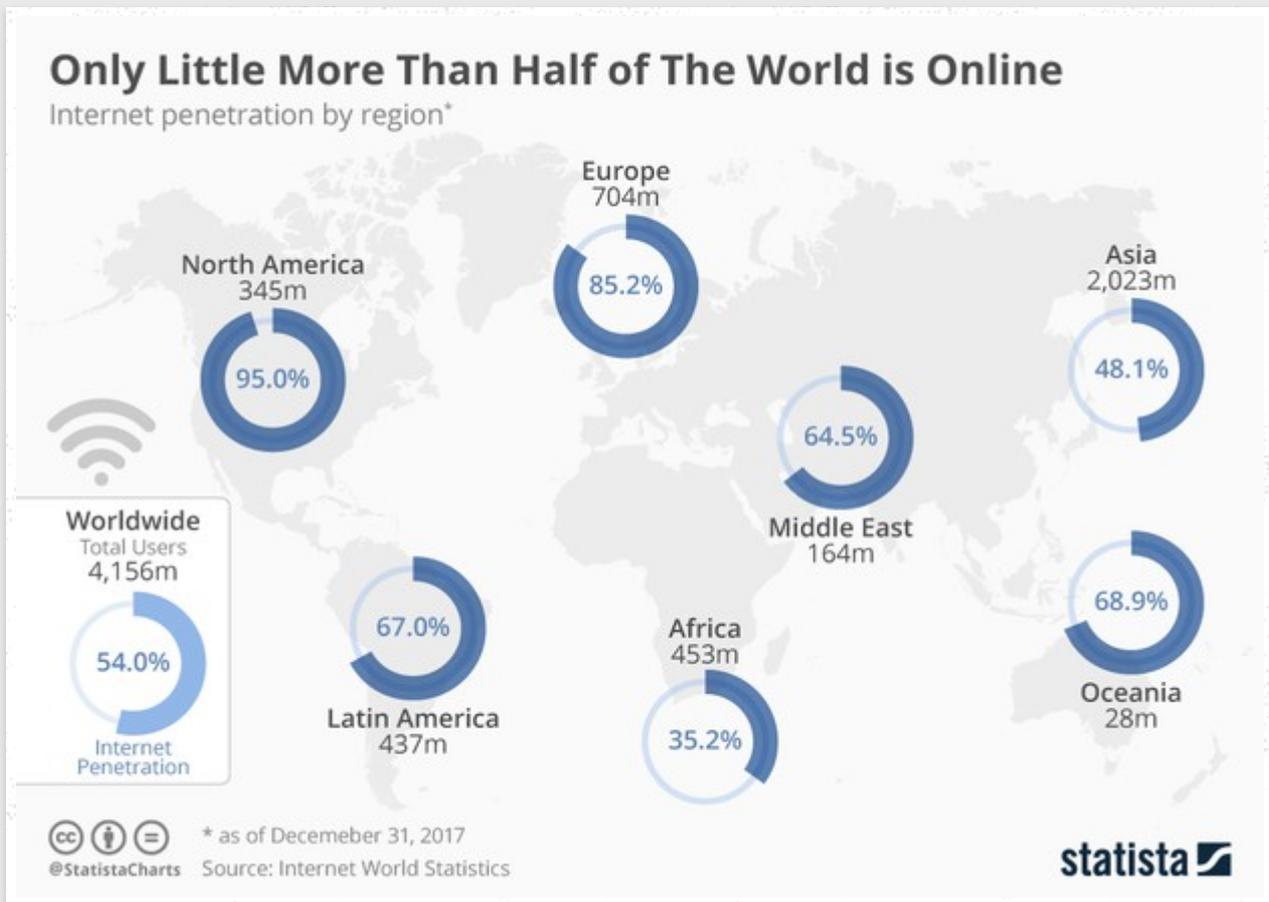

This summer we're open June 11 to July 21

Monday - Thursday

8 a.m. - 7 p.m.

See you here!

FOR US LIFE WITHOUT THE INTERNET IS UNIMAGINABLE, BUT DID YOU KNOW ...

That's right. According to our statistics database Statista, half the world can't stream Netflix, listen to Spotify, or fall into a Wikipedia rabbit hole. That's more than 3.5 billion people who, tragically, can't watch the newest cutest cat video online. So next time you're not getting a good signal on your phone, try and be patient (we know it's hard!).

THAT'S IT FOR NOW. IF WE DON'T SEE
YOU, HAVE A GREAT SUMMER!
